To the Members of the U.S. Senate:

The Bureau of Labor Statistics is depended upon by the entire world's financial system to provide accurate information about the state of the United States economy - free from political influence or spin.

President Obama's nominee to head the agency Erica Groshen, fails the test of being someone who is free from extremist political beliefs that will call into question the very information from the agency she would lead.

Included with this letter is the report from an investigation conducted by Americans for Limited Government revealing that Ms. Groshen chose to send her children to a communist-founded summer camp which according to their own website, "is true to the vision of its founders."

The choice of where to send your children for summer camp is a very personal one, and millions of parents make these decisions every year using due diligence to ensure the camp provides the experience they hope their children will both enjoy and learn from.

Ms. Groshen chose to send at least one of her children to a camp that revels in its past as a "red diaper baby" indoctrination center.

This choice reveals much more about Ms. Groshen's personal belief system. A belief system that the United States spent 50 years in a Cold, and sometimes hot, War to defeat.

The professionals at the Bureau of Labor Statistics deserve a leader who can be trusted by the public to be an honest arbiter rather than one who through her very presence damages the credibility that the agency has worked hard to maintain.

I urge you to oppose Erica Groshen's nomination to be Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. America deserves someone in that position who can be depended upon to provide honest data unskewed by radical agendas or beliefs.

Sincerely,

William A. "Bill" Wilson
President
Americans for Limited Government
